"The complete local community magazine with a touch of class"

Launched in November 2017, our acclaimed magazine is the only print title dedicated to Altrincham. Intended as a more reflective sister publication to the daily news service, it was described by the Society of Editors as the "complete local community magazine with a touch of class" and Highly Commended at the Regional Press Awards 2019.

Unlike larger, less independent regional magazines, we don't adopt an indiscriminate 'scattergun' approach to distribution. Instead we have strategically targeted and now partner an enviable list of high profile, high footfall locations across town and surrounding villages, ensuring readers proactively pick up the magazine, rather than having it imposed upon them.

Our print advertising options are cost-efficient and available in a range of sizes from Double Page Spread to Full, Half and Quarter page sites. Content can also be published on the website.
